

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A differential pumping system includes a first chamber for storing a light source that emits light, a
5 second chamber that receives light from the first chamber, and a vacuum pump, provided between the first and second chambers, which includes a hollow shaft through which the light passes, and exhausts the hollow shaft.

10